EMPLOYMENT BENEFITS:

Housing:

Lower of

- (a) Market value rental of the premises; and
- (b) The higher of the following:

- (i) 15% of employee's total annual income; and*
- (ii) the expenditure claimed as deduction by the employer in respect of the premises*

Illustrative Example of How to Compute Housing Benefit:

Mr. Habib is a resident of United Republic of Tanzania. He is employed by a company dealing with manufacturing of fast-moving consumer goods (FMCG).

During the year of income 2025 he had the following details:

Total employment income for the year before housing benefit is Tshs. 21,763,333

He was provided a house by employer where Mr. Habib contributed only Tshs. 100,000 per month as rent. The house costs the employer Tshs. 500,000 per month in rent which the employer claims as a deduction from his company's books of accounts/tax computation.

Mr. Habib occupied the house for 9 months only during the year 2025.

The market value of rent is Tshs. 350,000 per month.

Based on above facts, housing benefit is arrived at as follows:

- (a) Market rent = Tshs. 350,000 x 9 = Tshs. 3,150,000*
- (b) 15% of total employment income = 15% x Tshs. 21,763,333 x 9/12 = Tshs. 2,448,375*
- (c) Expenditure claimed by employer in relation to house Tshs. 500,000 X 9 = Tshs. 4,500,000*
- (d) Compare (b) and (c) and take the greater (here the greater is Tshs. 4,500,000)*
- (e) Then compare (a) and (d) above and take the lesser (here the lesser is Tshs. 3,150,000)*
- (f) Then this lesser amount is to be reduced by rent paid by employee (Mr. Habib). Rent paid by Mr. Habib is Tshs. 100,000 X 9 = Tshs. 900,000*
- (g) Hence, housing benefit [taxable under section 7(2)] will be Tshs. 3,150,000 - 900,000 = Tshs. 2,250,000*

Moreover, the tax exemption granted under Part II of VAT Act, 2014 under items 17 to 20 shall not apply to a taxable person who qualifies for VAT deferment granted under Section 11 of the VAT Act, 2014

VAT deferred on the imported capital goods shall cease to apply W.E.F. 1 July 2026.

VAT INPUT APPORTIONMENT FOR PARTIALLY EXEMPTED ENTITIES:

A taxable person who supplies (sells) both taxable items and non-taxable items (exempt items) is not allowed to claim 100% input tax. Originally, the taxpayer was supposed to apportion total input tax claim as follows:

$I \times T/A$

Where: I = total input tax claim; T = taxable sales (standard rated + zero rated sales); and A – total sales (standard rated, zero rated and exempted).

If T/A was more than 90%, then the concerned taxable person could claim fully its input taxes. But, if T/A was less than 10%, then the concerned taxable person would lose entirely the right to claim input tax. Hence no input tax would be claimable where T/A would be less than 10%.

The new VAT regulations (amended in October 2018) now alternatively require partially exempt taxpayers to allocate total input tax each month as follows:

(a) Input tax directly attributable to production/sell of taxable supplies.

For example: direct cost of acquiring stock which are re-sold at profit with 18% VAT.

(b) Input tax directly attributable to production/sell of exempt supplies

For example: direct cost of acquiring stock which are re-sold at profit without 18% VAT as exempted items.

(c) Input tax attributable to both supplies – those which are not easy to directly attribute to either taxable or exempt supplies.

For example: indirect company expenses, administration expenses, and the likes.

Thereafter, the new input claim process shall work as follows:

Step 1: fully claim all input tax under (a)

Step 2: do not claim any input tax under (b)

Step 3: apportion input tax under (c) using old input tax claim formula: $I \times T/A$

Where: I = total input tax claim; T = taxable sales (standard rated + zero rated sales); and A – total sales (standard rated, zero rated and exempted).

At the end of each year, an annual adjustment is then required to be made to input claim claimed under (c) so that total input tax incurred under category (c) is equal to annualized formula:

$I \times T/A$

Where: I = total input tax claim incurred in the year; T = taxable sales (standard rated + zero rated sales) for the year; and A – total annual sales (standard rated, zero rated and exempted).

NOTE: A TAXPAYER CANNOT CHANGE THE APPORTIONMENT METHOD ONCE IT HAS BEEN CHOSEN.

Total Sales Figure for VAT Input Apportionment for Supplier of Financial Services

Usually, most suppliers of financial services are partially exempted entities. Hence, they are required to apportion their total input tax for VAT filing purposes. In essence the same concept and formula shall apply for supplier of financial services as described above. However, for ascertaining T and A , the supplier of financial services needs to also take into account interest expense. Hence its total sales will be made of total standard rated sales plus interest income less interest expense. At the same time, reverse VAT on imported services shall not form part of sales figure for VAT input apportionment purposes. For avoidance of doubt, the value of taxable supplies (T) shall not include taxable supplies which are treated as made by the recipient of the imported services.

INPUT VAT CLAIMS ON GENERAL INSURANCE PREMIUMS AND BANK CHARGES:

Regulation 35 (VAT on Insurance Business) has been deleted and substituted with Regulation 35 (VAT on Financial Services) with effect from October 2018. With this amendment, restriction to taxpayers for claiming input tax on general insurance premiums is automatically lifted/removed. Hence taxpayers can now be assumed to be able to claim input tax paid on general insurance premiums.

Before claiming input tax on bank charges, each taxpayer must obtain a periodic statement from his/her banker which clearly states the following:

- (a) Name, address, TIN, VRN of the banker and taxpayer/customer;
- (b) Date of the periodic statement;
- (c) Description and value of each transaction;
- (d) Total consideration excluding VAT for each transaction;
- (e) Applicable VAT rate and amount on consideration;
- (f) Total price payable by the recipient of service/customer

Failure to have this periodic statement, shall render all input tax on bank charges as unclaimable.

In accordance with the Finance Act, 2019 the following change was introduced in the Tax Administration Act, 2015 pertaining to use of EFD machines:

Definition of the word 'fiscal receipt' was added into the said Act. The essence of this word's definition is that for a receipt or invoice being issued from an EFD machine to be construed as a fiscal receipt, it needs to be approved by the Commissioner General of Tanzania Revenue Authority. This means that fiscal receipts issued vide old EFD machines (which now happen to be outdated) and do not contain particulars as required by the relevant EFD Regulations shall be deemed not approved by the Commissioner General of Tanzania Revenue Authority and thus stand as unacceptable. These machines therefore need to be discontinued and replaced.
